Hekate Azostos

is the power you gain from casting off the weight other's opinions. Power from your animal self, your inner truth. The power that sends people running from the witch, from the wild woman. A power that says, "I know who I am and if you don't like it, you can f--- off."

Call on her to trade comfort for freedom.

Literally: ungirt, uncontained, and unbound by laws/fate.

THAT'S ALL WE TELL AND GOOD BUT

Cast off your Bindings with

Hekate Azostos

What you will need:

- cord, rope, yarn, old shoe laces, something you can tie knots in. Black or red would be best, but don't stress about it. The magic is more important than the minutiae.

- scissors

- Incense or some other cleansing agent if you cannot burn things in your space. (For instance, salt water)

Hekate Azostos! In bitter sorrow

Prayer to Hekate Azostos

Ritual Steps:

- set your intention, what are you cutting yourself free from? Shame? Fear of rocking the boat? Fear of being seen?
- Cleanse your cord and scissors by waiting them through the incense smoke or via your own method.
- Hold your intention in your mind as you tie a series of at least three knots. You can do more, if that feels right to you.
- Recite the prayer on the next page and then (carefully!) cut your cord.
- The leftover pieces of cord can be buried or burned. Don't burn any non-natural materials and always do it in a well ventilated space.

Hekate Brimo

is the bonfire, the conflagration,
the roar of fear and rage and flame.
With her aid you can surpass yourself in strength and daring. She is both fearsome and our protection from fear. Hear her rage building up inside you and know that it was your own all along. She can bring you justice, but only if you are brave enough to call on her.

Literally: terrible, angry, terrifying.

WHO ARE YOU PEOPLE?

THAT'S ALL WELL AND GOOD... BUT

Break Free with Hekate Brimo

What you will need:

- A bowl or plate you are willing to lose (and can break! no plastic.)
- A paper grocery bag
- A sharpie
- Incense or cleansing agent of your choice. (for example, salt water, if you cannot or do not wish to burn things in your space.)

Ritual Steps:

- Set your intentions. What are you breaking free from? What fear holds you back from changing the world for the better? Fear of the doing? Fear of retribution? Fear of what is on the other side?
- Cleanse the ritual objects, bowl, bag, and sharpie.
- Write what you are breaking free from, a sigil representing it, or even a drawing of it on the bowl with the sharpie.
- Place the bowl into the paper bag and focus on your intention. SMASH IT (outside on the ground is best. Use your feet, a baseball bat, whatever!)
- Say the prayer to Hekate Brimo, on the next page.
- Bury or dispose of the shards in the trash.

Prayer to Hekate Brimo

hope, I call you!

ecstatic joy, I call you! Hekate

To make change in the world, I must face fear itself. Help me give the world meaning, help me to transform it! Hekate Brimo, as I break free from my fear, point me towards the path of freedom that I seek.
